AMUSEMENTS.

LOTTA AT THE GRAND TO-NIGHT.

The most important amusement event of the present week, will he the engagement of the charming little comedienne, Lotta, opening at Dickson's Grand Opera House tonight, when she presents for the first time in this city, her new comic vaudeville,

'Mam'zelle Nitouche," in which she recently captured all London. Apropos, a few words in regard to this incomparable artiste's early career may be of interest. In the tumble-down districts of San Francisco, gnown as Chinatown, is a cute looking, though semewhat dilapidated cottage, which was once the home of Lotta. "Old Crab," as Lotta's father was tamiliarly called, kept a music hall down town that was largely patronized by miners and prospectors during California's golden days, along in 1851 and '52. During the afternoons and evenings, musical and variety amusements were given on a stage in one end of the hall or saloon, On one occasion the star ran off to the mines with her lover, which broke up the show. Little Lotta was then acting as waiter girl, carrying drinks to the rough miners, and assisting her father in every way she could. She was then over sixteen years of age. The old man on this occasion was way down in the month. His patrons were clamoring for the show to begin and threatening to clear the ranch if he didn't trot out a singer. In the midst of his distress. which he had ineffectually tried to drown

"I'll do it, dad, if you'll let me." He told her she couldn't, and she went away in tears. In a few minutes, however, the fiddler appeared, the bell tinked, and up went the curtain. There stood Lotta in her faultlessly neat barmaid dress, all confused, and just on the point of bursting into tears. The crowd yelled and stamped, the fiddler threw his whole weight on the horsehair, and Letta sang and danced as had never been done there before. The men applauded, stamped and howled, three their hats on the stage and pelted her with gold pieces and bags of dust until she was worth $100 or more. They would not be satisfied and clamored for more and more until the litt'e lady was completely worn out. From that night on "Old Cabb's" place did the business, and had he not allowed her success to turn his head he would have made a fortune. But the more he made the harder he drank, and finally took to abusing Lotta and her mother, and at last he died despised by all who knew him except his abused child. She then started out to make her own fortune.

with copious draughts of whisky, Lotta beckoned him back to the entrance and Miss Lulu Nichols, of this city, has joined Bennett & Moulton's Opera Company to sing small parts. They are now in the East. That funny comedy, "Dan Sully's Corner Grocery," will be at English's the last half of this week. The sale of seats opens this morning at the theater. The house will remain closed the first three nights of the week. The Philadelphia World says: "There is too much gum-sucking in the first act of 'Over the Garden Wall' between Bob Graham and Marion Fleming " That's unkind, "see a' as how" the young lady in question is an Indianapolis girl.

Bartley Campbell's great scenic and romantic drama, "The White Slave," will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House the last three nights of this week. The company is a large and strong one, and has been playing to immense houses every-

The Zoo opens the week to night with Joe A. Burgess' spicy comedy, "A Banker's Luck," and strong olio, introducing Ward and Lee, Irish comedians; Mile, Adele, slackwire performer; Romalo Brothers, gymnasts; L'eut. Allen; Ada Price, serio-comic, and O'Brien and Redding, sketch artists.

The Dime Museum opens the week, this afternoon, with one of the strongest bills of the season, both in Curiosity Hall and the theatorium, and another big boom is confidently anticipated. Among the principal curiosities will be the "Man Fish" and 'Water Queen," the "Passion Clock," the White Moors, the Herodian Mystery, the Glass Blowers, Signor Giovani's trained birds, the fat girl and the Rice midgets. The stage show will be given by a strong array of specialty people. Admission to all only ten cents.

Death on the Rail,

William Vincent, conductor on the I., B. and W. Road, was killed at Troy, O., some time during Saturday night. He had left the caboose to go forward to the engine while the train was in motion, there being but seven freight cars to walk. When the pext station was reached he was missing. Word was sent back, and he was found on the track at the point where he had started to walk over the train, his body being cut in pieces. He must have missed his footing as soon as he had stepped off the first car. His remains will be sent here to-day. Vincent was about thirty-eight years old. His home has been across the river for several years and he has been a conductor on the I., B. and W. Road for a long time. He leaves a wife, but no children.

That Vacant Position. Although there is not a Republican member of the police force who would not gladly accept the position of sergeant, made vacant by the resignation of John Reed, none of them are hustling as lively as Patrolmen Low, Rafftery, Cleary and McCain, and it is generally understood that one of these men will drop into the position. They are all good officers and the appointment of any one of them will give satisfaction. It is highly probable the Police Commissioners will meet to-night to fill the vacancy.

Too Young to Die.

Early yesterday morning Patrolmen Low and Meek found Mel McPherson, a young man, very much under the influence of intoxicants, vainly attempting to beat his brains out on the sidewalk, near the corner of Missouri and Washington streets. Feeling that he was too young to die so horrible a death, the kind-hearted "coppers" sent

LEGISLATIVE NOTES.

Short Sessions in Both Branches of the Legislature Saturday.

The Senate Committee on Prison Visit the Michigan City Institution-Other Notes.

Both bodies of the Legislature adjourned at noon faturday, to meet at 2 o'clock to-

Directors of the prisons and Trustees of the benevolent institutions will be elected at 2:30 p. m. to-day. Mr. Gooding is opposed to compacts between insurance companies and has introduced a bill to prevent them. The parties to the Knightstown Home controversy have employed attorneys and the disclosures are expected to be sensational, dirty and costly. A bill introduced by Senator Hilligas empowers County Commissioners to open books for subscriptions to erect soldiers' monuments and to appropriate money for the

T. W. Tomlinson, of Logansport, has been appointed clerk and stenographer for the Knightstown Investigating Committee at a salary of $6 per day, and a day's work is fixed at eight hours actual employment. Considering that stenographic court reporters are worth but $5 per day, this seems just a little odd.

The House has ordered printed the Senate bills providing for a temporary loan and appropriating money for the completion and equipment of the new insane hospitals. If Mr. Moody proposed to investigate the asylums, it would be well for him to begin at once, as they are likely to be completed within the few years.

THE SENATE COMMITTEE AT THE NORTHERN

PRISON. The Senate Committee on Prisons, rapresented by Senators Hoover, Faulkner, Benz, Null, Campbell, of St. Joe, and Marshall, returned Saturday afternoon, after a very pleasant trip to the Lake City. They were accompanied by Miss Frankie Faulkner and Miss Susie Morgan, and Mrs. John Saids. and a numar of others. Both on the cars and at leisure moments while at the prison Senator Hoover's bill for the encour. | Hartford City; S. C. Thomson, Edinburg; agement of life time convicts in the State Prisons was freely discussed and earn- | Crawfordsville; J. T. Stahl, Chicago; Wm. estly approved by all members of the com-mittee. The bill provides that prisoners sentenced for life shall be liberated by the Governor at the expiration of twenty-five years from the date of their sentence, less the time earned by good behavior during the time of imprisonment. A convict whose behavior had been uniformly good would, under the provisions of this bill, be released at the expiration of fifteen years and three months. The release, however, would be only provisional; the slightest infringement of law after their release would remand to prison for the unexpired term. Rev. Mr. McCafn, chaplain of the Southern Prison, said that no life-time convict who had been pardoned by the Governor had ever committed a second offense which returned him to prison. Warden Murdock gives like testimony as to the Northern Prison. Senator Campbell, of St. Joe, who is one of the ablest Republican Senators, made a somewhat investigation of the prison accounts, and called for vouchers as to time of convict labor, not only from the guards but also from some of the contractors for such labor; and also made personal examination of the Warden's bond. Mr. Murdock said that he was willing and ready at any time to permit the most searching investigation as to every detail of expenditure and every act of discipline. And he added that if the Legislature did not think a bond of $30,000 was ample, he was willing to give one for $50,000 or for $500,000. at twenty-four hours notice. The Senator from St. Joe said he was satisfied that the present bond was large enough, and good enough, and that the books showed a satis factory management of the finances. Clerk Condon was complimented by members of the committee on his bookkeeping. The Hon. Henry Manning, of Fort Wayne, one of the directors, was present, and aided the committee materially in their investigation. Mr. George Majors, one of the other directors, was unfortunately absent by reason of

THE RAILROADS.

Pool Troubles-The Ups and Downs of the Railroad Business-Other Items of the Rail.

The Vandalia has issued a neat quartersheet hanger with the line and its Michigan connections standing out in white against a background of shining white.

A petition has been presented in the United States Circuit Court at Philadelphia by the receivers of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company, having for its ire an arrangement whereby the holders of convertible script are to receive in exchange the income bonds held as security.

The life of a railroad official is, after all, not more settled than that of a circuit preacher. The places which know him today miss him to-morrow, when he leaves to accept a new position or to drop entirely out of the business. Not long ago the railway columns contained frequent references to General Manager Cooper, of the A. and G. W. Road. Now he is leading the life of a retired farmer. Ex-Division Superintendent Gale, of the Bee Line, is also a farmer now. Sometimes men who have persisted in railroading when the tide of their fortune has changed have been obliged to accept very inferior positions. The President of one of the great Western lines of railway is now Western agent for an Eastern line, drumming up business at a small salary. He is as able now as ever to fill the office of President, but the faction of the Board of Directors opposed to him got on top and he had to withdraw. The man who for many years was General Passenger Agent of the Pennsylvania Road, that grand line whose officials are attended by lackers in livery, is now its New England agent, and the ex-General Passenger Agent of the Wabash is now keeping a shoe store in Toledo. A New York special to the Chicago Tribune says: Mr. S. F. Pierson, Vice Chairman of the trunk-line pool, said to-day that July 23 last a representative delegation from the Traders' and Travelers' Union, who are now fighting the pool for alleged diversion of freights and discriminations, called on him and endeavored to secure special concessions for its customers in Western cities. The committee said: "Whatever we do with you will be in the form of private negotiations. We want to get as favorable rates for customers in Western cities as possible. We do not intend to operate publicly, and will have but little to do with the press." Mr. Pearson asked what particular special fares were desired. The committee replied: "We would leave all these matters of detail to be settled by your committee. We expected, however, that we should name the people to be affected by these rates. We did not intend to have them thrown open to the public. So conspicuous an organization as Mr. Fink represents would hardly like to say it had adopted as a general public policy the kind of concession we ask for. We are willing to take the risk of maintaining privacy, both for your protection and ours, in this regard. Looking the matter over, we have said this: 'It would not do for Mr. Fink, as the official organ of the large corporation whose lines run hence, to announce that it was the policy of his organization to make special rates for every one. If there is a competition between Chicago and New York that renders it necessary to use a certain discretion in making these concessions, let that be employed by the merchants on the one hand and the railways on the other." Mr. Pierson said to-day: "Here we have the rather remarkable proposition or the Traders' and Travelers' Union to go into a secret deal with the pool committee for the avowed purpose of securing special favors for members of its organization, which would discriminate against other patrons of the railways. If this is not an avowed illegal and unjust purpose it is difficult to say what other construction could be placed upon it."
